Commentary for Psalms 29 . Exhortation to give glory to God. - The mighty and honourable of the earth are especially bound to honour and worship him; but, alas, few attempt to worship him in the beauty of holiness. When we come before him as the Redeemer of sinners, in repentance faith, and love, he will accept our defective services, pardon the sin that cleaves to them, and approve of that ...

The Psalms are beautiful poetic songs of prayer. The Psalms convey three important themes of Hebrew Scripture - that God is active in history, the necessity of human response to God through praise and prayer, and the beginning of wisdom is to Trust in God and fear of the Lord. The Psalms of Hebrew Scripture are composed of songs of praise sung to God in divine worship, accompanied by a musical ...

The power and raw physical strength of an evil man is a frightening reality. The power of a good man is a comfort. But the other attributes a man possesses determines how his power is viewed. In and of itself, God's power is not nearly as comforting as when seen in light of several of His other attributes. Two of these attributes are the "goodness" of God and the "wisdom" of God. The ...

The psalms of praise extol the virtue and power of the Lord. The God of Israel is praised for His handiwork in nature (Psalm 19:1; 89:5; 148:3), His deliverance of His people (Psalm 18:10; 111:9), and His wonderful attributes, such as lovingkindness and patience (Psalm 89:13-14; 130:7). Psalm 147 is a good example of a psalm of praise. In this psalm, which also begins and ends with the ...
